BREAKING THE SOLID SOUTH

About once every so often some thoughtful writer repeats the old suggestion that the "Solid South" should be broken for political expediency. With solemn faces they declare "We never get anything from the Republicans when they are in, because they know they can't get anything from us in return; and we never get anything from them in return because they know they don't have to bait us." And the fellow who calls himself a patriot and statesman solemnly declares "We ought to break the 'Solid South' for our own good."

And the suggestion is as newsworthy as it is thoughtless. The subject is well discussed editorially by the Atlanta Messenger in the following:

"The Dalton Citizen is in favor of breaking the solid South politically, and feeling the need of something to lean against in its position, it cites the Walton Tribune as a co-worker in the cause.

"There is only one way to prevent the South from going Democratic, and that way is for a sufficient number of Democrats to turn Republican. Does the Dalton Citizen favor that method? If it does, has it turned or is it going to turn Republican? Is it going to ignore the fact that there are fundamental differences between the Democratic and the Republican parties, differences in principle that amount to something? Is it going to abandon the Democratic principle of equal rights to all and special privileges to none, and a principle upon which fair and stable government is founded, for the so-called Republican principle of special privileges for a favored class under which the rich get richer and the poor get poorer through the operation of the Republican high tariff? It says the South is fast becoming an industrial section, and as its industries reach big proportions it will be heard yelling for tariff protection. Tariff protection for whom? In a newspaper article Harry Edwards said practically the same thing recently, and Edwards used to help run the Macon Telegraph editorially as a high protection advocate, and has long since been consistent enough to join the Republican party. Does a high protective tariff protect the Western producer? A few years ago the tariff tax on wheat was made higher as an emergency measure to protect the producer and the price of wheat went down and the price of flour went up. The high protective tariff is not intended to protect the producer, it is a sop to the manufacturer, who adds the tariff tax to the selling price of the finished product, and in turn is expected to contribute to the Republican shuck fund, which is a rule he does when called upon. The high protective tariff is the medium through which the comparatively few are favored over the masses of the people under Republican administrations, and under which a top-heavy and circumscribed prosperity is created that is dangerous because it starts from the top instead of the bottom, the foundation. We have that kind of prosperity under the Coolidge administration, a spotted prosperity that will topple over in the end because it discriminates against the many and favors the few.

"The Dalton Citizen speaks lightly of sentiment in connection with the solid South. Call it sentiment, if you wish, but there was an in a very stern reality attached to it. The force bill of Henry Cabot Lodge was defeated in the United States Senate only through the expedient of a prolonged filibuster by the Democrats, and similar measures are still being introduced in congress by Republican members. With the breaking up of the solid South, that is Southern States becoming Republican, the resistance to such measures would be weakened, and although at the present time the negro vote is practically negligible in the Southern States, it is still there, to be used if and when opportunity offers under federal legislation enacted by Republicans. Does the Dalton Citizen want to do away with a sentiment that was born of objection to black heels on white necks? It is not to be supposed, if it is Southern, that it does, and its rather contemptuous references to sentiment in connection with the solid South may be ascribed to thoughtlessness, but

LEGIONNAIRES AND LIQUOR

That was a rather thoughtless proposition of National Commander Spafford to take a poll of the Legionnaires on the prohibition question. It is well that more thoughtful heads put a stop to the matter before it went to the danger point.

The American Legion is not a political party, and the prohibition question belongs to at least one of these elements. The Legion is in position to serve the service men through adherence to business and social activities, and no other way. Jew and Gentile, Catholic and Protestant comprise its membership. There are many grounds upon which all these factions may unite, and there are as many grounds upon which they are stumbling blocks. Prohibition is one of these issues.

Commander Spafford possibly had no thought of serving either faction, but he did have a purpose. He probably reasoned in his mind that the Legionnaires had rights which they were entitled to express. He probably thought the entire nation was entitled to know how they stood on the question of prohibition, and he conceived the plan of taking a poll on the subject from the most innocent motives.

But he made a mistake. It is dangerous, even for the churches to attempt to draw the lines on this matter; and it is folly for any party to make it the supreme issue. There are Democrats and Republicans alike who believe in the present laws—and there are those in each party who would modify them if they could. It is as true as the ages that nobody is ever satisfied entirely with that which they have established. A few years ago the temperance people of the country were the local optionists. They declared that each community should have the right to decide for itself how it would treat the liquor problem. Then was the time that the liquor traffic was rather widespread. The liquor people opposed local option. They insisted that the county or the state should be the unit on this problem—that no small community should have the right to draw a line about itself and exclude liquor.

Can you imagine such arguments now from those opposing elements, since conditions have been absolutely reversed? Could you conjure in your mind a prohibitionist conceding to a local control of the liquor traffic, or a liquorist who would not gladly jump at the opportunity for local option if it were offered?

Therefore we assert nobody is ever fully satisfied with what he has. The drys will never get it as dry as they want it, and the wets will never get it as wet as they want it. The American Legion nor the church nor any other body will ever get things in such shape that they will be content for them to remain that way, for the simple reason that people change in their wants as they pass along through life. The American Legion is not now in position to give a definite and permanent answer to the question that was about to be put to it, for the very good reason that the members do not know exactly what they want nor why they want it nor whether they will continue to want it.

Commander Spafford made a break, but he was headed off before he went far enough to do any harm.

"ONE GLASS OF WINE"

Await those who journey down to Stilson Friday evening, December 16th. The liquor traffic is rather widespread. The liquor people opposed local option. They insisted that the county or the state should be the unit on this problem—that no small community should have the right to draw a line about itself and exclude liquor.

During supper he hears that a new fighter has whipped Pat Malone, a famous boxer. Reilly goes to the cabaret and there he admires Mary Malone, an entertainer and the sister of Pat Malone. Reilly meets and escorts the lady home and there meets Pat, the fighter, who urges Reilly to enter the fighting ring—and the excitement that follows is a jolting groggy to the spot where he laughs are. "BROADWAY NIGHTS"
With Lois Wilson and Sam Hardy; from the original story by Forrest Halsey; directed by Joseph C. Boyle. A picture that puts Broadway on the map and maps Broadway in a picture. There's love, tears, footlight blues and a romance that endures the searing brightness of the Gay White Way. "Broadway Nights" is a fast-moving and colorful film of the theatre and night club life in the city where the "dawn comes up like thunder." This is a story of how an ambitious amateur served an apprenticeship in vaudeville, blossomed on Broadway in the gayest night club, and finally became the toast of the town as the star of a big musical revue. Extra, "PATHE NEWS, No. 100"—come see the Tech-Georgia football game at the Amusu—the first on the scene and the first on the screen.

APPROACHING CHRISTMAS BRINGS THOUGHTS OF HOME

Ten more days and Christmas will be here! Statesboro's college boys and girls will be coming in within the next few days. Already their hearts are turning homeward and every thought is of their approaching visit. Impatience attends every movement till the hour for starting homeward. Just how impatient, we are reminded by having been shown a letter from one of the girls off at school written to her sister. Chiding her sister from neglect in writing her she pours out her emotions in eloquent terms.

The letter, written from Athens, is as follows:

"Dear Grace: 'I'll admit I know you are no prize fighter, but looks to me like you might lick a stamp every week. Why not, please, and answer my last two letters.'"

"Heaps much love,"

MRS. MARY A. SHUMAN

Mrs. Mary A. Shuman, aged 78 years, wife of J. D. Shuman died Sunday, December 11, at the University Hospital in Augusta, where she had been for treatment for several days. The body was brought back to Statesboro and interment was at Emmit Grove cemetery Tuesday morning, December 13. Deceased is survived by two daughters and five sons, 48 grandchildren and 18 great-grandchildren.

FERTILIZER RESEARCH WORK TO BE COORDINATED

Plans to determine fertilizer needs of different soils for different crops that the basis of fertilizer recommendations for the Southeastern states are to be outlined by a group of experiment station agronomists in Atlanta, December 2 and 3.

An attempt is being made by this committee representing Virginia, North and South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Florida and Tennessee, to unify plans for fertilizer research work to eliminate lack of uniformity in recommendations insofar as possible.

The committee will not only attempt to revise existing recommendations but will in some instances revise plans for work now underway.

Two meetings have already been held, according to C. B. Williams, agronomist, North Carolina State College, chairman. Definite and satisfactory plans were agreed upon for studying the ratio of organic to inorganic ammonia for cotton. In the past, independent plans have been followed on this project, and as a result different experiment stations have made different recommendations, resulting in much confusion.

Other members of the committee include agronomists from the experiment stations as follows: M. J. Funchess, Auburn, Ala.; T. S. Buio, Clemson College, S. C.; R. P. Bledsoe, Griffin, Ga.; C. B. Anders, A. & M. College, Miss.; W. R. Stokes, Gainesville, Fla.; C. A. Moore, Knoxville, Tenn.; T. B. Hutcheson, Blacksburg, Va., and J. C. Pridmore, director of the Southern Division, Soil Improvement Committee, National Fertilizer Association, Atlanta.

DENMARK SCHOOL NEWS

The P. T. A. which met last Friday thought it a very wise idea to have the dentist come to our school and examine all the pupils teeth. They also collected their funds.

We hope to have a game of basketball with Siltson this week, both girls and boys, in which we are hoping to win.

Many new things have been ordered for our school which will be a benefit to us.

The primary grades have been very busy making borders for Christmas decorations.

FOR SALE

For the man or woman who is anxious to get into a good paying business with out a small investment, I am offering for sale a well established Ladies' Ready-to-Wear business, located in the city of Statesboro, one of the best, (if not, in fact the very best cities of its size) in the state.

For any one who may be interested, my books are open for their full and complete inspection. I can show from my records of sales that I have turned my capital stock on an average of almost four times a year since establishing this business three years ago. Any one else should do equally as well.

We are now engaged in a big Close-Out Sale of the stock on hand with the intention of quitting business at the earliest moment possible, but since the business is such a good paying, well established small business, we would much prefer to sell to some one who wants just such a business and who would take it over and build to for quitting business is absolutely no secret and will be satisfactorily explained to any one who may be interested. Balance of stock and fixtures for sale, and a lease for any reasonable length of time can be secured on the building. Address:

GEORGIA NORMAL NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. Guy H. Wells gave a lovely tea to the faculty and students Tuesday afternoon in their attractive new home on the campus. The rooms were beautifully decorated for this occasion, and during the afternoon delicious refreshments were served.

The Faculty Club was entertained by Miss Elizabeth Bruce, Miss Emma Coleman and the students in the home economics department Tuesday evening in the dining room of the home economics department.

A lovely gift was presented to Mr. and Mrs. Guy H. Wells as a token of appreciation from the faculty members. A most delicious dinner was served in an attractive setting of Christmas shrubbery and flowers.

The members of the Y. W. C. A. acted as hostesses to the students of the Sunnyside training school on Wednesday afternoon. The little people enjoyed a Christmas program and a Christmas tree. There was a small present for everyone besides candies, etc.

The vesper services Sunday evening were beautiful. The stage was transformed into a hillside scene, where the shepherds watched their sheep. A large star was fixed on a dark blue background with small stars around it. Just before the program began soft music was played by Miss Elizabeth Edenfield. Then there was silent prayer and an "Amen" cord on the piano.

Most reading, "There's a Star in the Sky"—Ila Mae Strickland. Pantomime, "Three Wise Men"—Bill Coleman, Trawick Stubbs and Moses McNeire.

Scripture, Christmas story—Miss Malvina Trussell.

Musical scene: "Hark! The Herald Angels Sing"—O. Little Town of Bethlehem.

Then students representing Japan, China, India, Egypt, Indians, Quakers, Missionaries, Mexicans, Greece, Jews and several other countries came on the stage and joined the audience in singing "Joy to the World" and "It Came Upon a Midnight Clear." After this they marched off the stage down either aisle singing "Silent Night."

Dismissal, prayer — Miss Carrie Clay.

The members of the Y. W. C. A. are holding services for a few minutes each evening. They find that more of the members are able to attend the evening services.

R. M. Monts, superintendent of the Statesboro schools, spoke to the students at chapel Wednesday morning. His talk was very inspiring, concerning the possibilities of a future life if one seeks the worthwhile things. We sincerely hope Mr. Monts will come out and talk to us again.

Dr. A. J. Mooney and Miss Lila Blitch, both leading citizens of Statesboro, were with us in chapel Friday morning. The purpose of their visit was to arouse in the Normal boys' and girls' interest in the sale of tubercular Christmas seals.

Francis Mathis and Frank DeLoach were selected to conduct the sale. Quite a number of stamps have been sold.

Mr. and Mrs. Z. S. Henderson motored to Dublin Saturday. Mr. Henderson made a talk before the Laurens county teachers. From Dublin they motored to Eastman to visit Mrs. Henderson's parents. Before returning to Statesboro Mr. Henderson attended the athletic conference at Douglas.

President Guy H. Wells delivered an educational address before the teachers of Jefferson county Saturday in Louisville.

Miss Carrie Law Clay addressed the students of the Swainsboro high school Wednesday morning.

Miss Frances Stubbs made a talk before the students of the Graymont-Summit high school Wednesday morning.

Miss Malvina Trussell made a talk before the students of the Meteor high school Wednesday morning.

The minstrel put on by the Georgia Normal Glee Club, under the direction of Miss Evelyn Coleman, head of the music department, was carried to Graymont-Summit on Wednesday evening. Miss Coleman deserves a great deal of credit for training these young men so well.

The many friends of Miss Lunell Bell will be glad to learn that she is improving after her tonsil operation. She will no doubt be able to leave her room in a few days.

We are very glad to have George Aldred, from E. C. I., as one of our students.

The girls basketball team played the Warnock girls in a practice game Wednesday afternoon.

Miss Sarah Fountain, of Adrian, was the weekend guest of Miss Josie Hutchinson last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Glison and their little son were visitors of Miss Eucilde Glison Monday.

is a Prescription for Colds, Grippe, Flu, Dengue, Bilious Fever and Malaria. It kills the germs.

Pan-Am Gasoline is clean gasoline—carefully processed and purified to make it so. This clean fuel means added miles to the gallon. Get it at the familiar cream-colored Pan-Am pump.

It will pay you to insist on the improved Pan-Am motor oil. This tougher oil retains its body in spite of engine heat and friction, protecting cylinder walls and bearings effectively.

Never before so important to buy CLEAN GASOLINE ...TOUGHER OIL

TODAY'S motors achieve their smoother power and more efficient operation by greater demands than ever before on fuel and lubricating oil. Their higher speed develops scorching heat that soon breaks down old-fashioned oils. And higher compressions demand carbon-free cylinders. To meet these new conditions Pan-Am offers you two better motor products—

CLEAN gasoline

The extra-careful Pan-Am refining process removes the carbon-forming elements and corrosives found in many gasolines, as well as dirt and sediment. Notice how crystal-clear it is next time you see a Pan-Am pump. No wonder it keeps your motor cleaner—gives more power and mileage.

TOUGHER oil

The improved Pan-Am motor oil is especially refined from paraffin-base crudes to stand up under greater heat and friction. It is tougher; adhering to cylinder walls and bearings effectively. Extra-long life cuts the cost of this tougher oil below that of doubtful kinds.

Both of these better motor products are sold by Pan-Am dealers everywhere. Look for the familiar cream-colored Pan-Am pump. It marks a reliable place to trade.

OGEECHEE SCHOOL NEWS
The box supper this was given at the Ogeechee Consolidated School Friday evening, December 16th, was a decided success as nearly $500 were made.

Quite an unusual musical program was the life of the affair, "Uncle Dave" was favored with several fiddle selections. Mr. Wayne G. Parrish rendered a solo of waffles which made a hit with every one. We are very sorry that our beloved principal, Prof. W. D. Reid, has resigned on account of eye trouble. We were visited by Prof. W. R. Deal, who will succeed Prof. Reid after the holidays.

Our classes for the Christmas holidays will suspend Friday, December 23rd, and will open again on Monday, January 2, 1928.

"ONE GLASS OF WINE"
PROVES TO BE BIG HIT

Before a large and very appreciative audience, the members of the faculty of the Stillson Consolidated School scored a big hit with their rendition of "One Glass of Wine," one of Annie Mae Elywyn's contributions to the American Dramatic Organization, on Friday evening December 16th.

The cast deserves praise from every angle in their efforts and girls in presenting this type of play, as all of Miss Elywyn's plays are very trying and not often attempted by amateur players; however, the faculty of the Stillson school have all had quite a bit of experience in stage work and this presentation was unusually well played. Miss Dorothy Anderson, teacher of expression, coached and directed the players.

The chorus was composed of twelve school girls and were well trained by Miss Thelma Barnes, the music teacher. All in all the play proved very successful and was well received by the audience. The cast was composed of S. A. Driggers, Hubert Lee, Earl Driggers, Clifford Sowell, J. T. Tatum, Calvert Peabes, Ernest Shapp, Albert Johnson, Elizabeth Come, Mary Lillian Cubbage, Marguerite Cone, Thelma Johnston, Nina McElveen, Willie Coleman.

TAX COLLECTOR HAS
BIG BUSINESS TUESDAY

With receipts totalling $32,278.66, the tax collector's office had its biggest day of the year on the closing day Tuesday. Mr. Proctor had extra help to take care of the rush and had no trouble in serving all who applied to their individual facilities. The collectors, a young man, Fred Burson, from Milton, charged with cheating and swindling. He left his two companions in the alleged robberies, Curtis McSwain and Henry Bass, who were lodged in other cells. Exactly how Mosley worked his escape is not known, but Sheriff Maynard is sure he picked the lock with some instruments. It is reported that he had been successful in escaping from other jails in a similar manner.

Mosley was arrested by the sheriff of Montgomery county last Thursday by request of the Bulloch county officials. After being brought to Statesboro, he proceeded to "spill the beans" which has resulted in the arrest of the other two. Curtis McSwain was arrested Friday by Deputy Sheriff Joe Tillman and County Policeman Scott Crews, and Henry Bass was arrested the same day by Deputy Tillman and County Police Chief Sewel Kennedy. The officers went to the home of the high for them after Mosley had given information which implicated them in the robbery.

According to the statement made to the officers by Mosley, these men comprise a gang who have been subsisting upon their pilfering. Henry Bass operates a filling station near Piney Bluff bridge, which, according to Mosley, has been kept stocked by their activities. It was at this place Bass was arrested Friday. According to Chief Kennedy, the place of business is a gruesome sight. Upon the walls of the crude building, he said, were copious signs of blood upon the occasion of his visit. This blood, it was explained to him by persons present, came from a cutting affray a few evenings previous in which a number of persons were involved.

Bulloch county has contributed liberally to the booty which these men have been harvesting for the past several months. Chief Kennedy brought back a large number of automobile tires found in the place where the men were held. The tires were alleged to have been stolen from the store of W. S. Finch at Portal. Among the other Bulloch county stores which are said to have been victims of these thefts during the past three or four months are those of T. M. Woodcock and Bob Barnes, who operate country stores in the Blitch district, and Vande Royd and Freeman Carter at Portal. Also the
